

Community-Based Integrated Care Fellowship

The University of Washington Community-Based Integrated Care Fellowship welcomes psychiatric providers seeking additional training to deliver integrated care in community-based settings. This CME-accredited program is offered through the UW Integrated Care Training Program (ICTP) and is free for Washington State providers*.

This is a year-long, employment-friendly fellowship which is modeled after employed MBA programs. It offers a comprehensive curriculum, with an emphasis on core collaborative care skills, tele-psychiatry, establishing an integrated care practice, delivering care for special populations, and learning the ins and outs of billing/payment codes.

Trainees can expect:

- A flexibly scheduled four-hour weekly commitment
- Online distance-learning component
- Quarterly in-person sessions for specialized skills work
- Monthly mentorship with a UW ICTP faculty member
- A focus on quality improvement

*Please see back of flyer for CME information.

REQUIREMENTS

- Active medical license
- Current practice
- Letter of support from current employer, if employed
- Brief personal statement
- Current CV

WHO: Psychiatric providers, such as: Psychiatrists, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioners, and Psychiatric Physician Assistants

WHEN: March 2020 – February 2021

COST: Free for WA state providers through the UW Integrated Care Training program. $20,000 for providers outside of Washington State.

MORE INFORMATION: Visit our website (<http://ictp.uw.edu/programs/community-based-integrated-care-fellowship>) for more information.

Objectives

Upon completion of this activity, participants will be able to:

1. apply collaborative care principles in their current practice setting
2. describe both direct and collaborative care psychiatric services through a tele-medicine approach
3. describe the core features of implementation of integrated care program to deliver mental health services in a primary care setting, including developing new workflows
4. design and execute a quality improvement project to support the delivery of collaborative care principles in current practice setting
5. articulate the rationale and business case for developing integrated care practices to leverage scarce psychiatric services
6. demonstrate the core skills of a psychiatric consultant as part of a collaborative care team

The Community-Based Integrated Care Fellowship will address the following topics:

Primary Care Psychiatry	Substance Use
Brief Behavioral Interventions	Child Populations
Telepsychiatry	Maternal Populations
Transition to Practice	Geriatric Populations
Implementation	Public Health & Health Services
Quality Improvement	Primary Care in Mental Health Settings
Financing Collaborative Care

ACCREDITATION STATEMENT

The University of Washington School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Washington School of Medicine designates this other activity for a maximum of 114 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

*Nominal fee will be charged for those who wish to obtain CME credit.